MEMORANDUM FOR:

Office of Security

SUBJECT:

Proposed Legislation on Industrial Security

25X1A9A

The following item appears in the Journal of the Agency's Office of Legislative Counsel and is a summary of a conversation between our [redacted] and a member of the staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. This subcommittee has the responsibility for drafting any legislation on this subject which might be presented to the entire Senate for consideration, and it also is the subcommittee to which proposals on this subject are referred after passing the House of Representatives. Accordingly, this subcommittee holds the key to any further action on this subject in the present Congress and, as indicated by [redacted] note below, the odds are now perhaps better than even that no legislation will be enacted by the present Congress in view of the short time remaining before adjournment. [redacted] comment is as follows:

"Chatted with Bill McManus, Staff member on the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, to determine the status of the draft proposals on Industrial Security. McManus indicated that he had forwarded copies of the draft to Senator Thomas J. Dodd and Senator Kenneth B. Keating, the senators who had co-sponsored the original bill on this subject, but in view of more important legislation he does not expect action on this proposal in this Congress. Since this most recent draft is a re-statement of the Executive Order on the Industrial Security program, he feels there is no pressing need at this time for the enactment of legislation on the subject."
